Please don't get in the way of companies that try to foster innovation. Keep your hands off Microsoft. Without the standards they have introduced and maintained at a reasonable cost to consumers the computer market would be a fragmented mess.

Also... When the government goes after companies that take risks to innovate it scares me. Why should I make investments in technologies and innovations in my company when there is a threat that the Government will just pull the rug out someday?

Keep America a technology leader. Hopefully you can undo the damage you've already done.
